TEEN STILL ON THE RUN FROM COPS

Extensive search failed to find prisoner

A TEENAGE prisoner continues to elude police after breaking out of a secure van and getting away from his guards in Rochester.

The 14-year-old boy jumped out of the people carrier in Cookham Wood Road on Friday morning at 10.20am, before bolting away.

He was reported to have been spotted on a trials bike in his home town of Camden, north London, hours later but has evaded police.

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

It is unknown how he managed to wrestle free of his guards, escape from the van or make his way back to the capital.

Medway police said they were working with their colleagues within Met police to find the youngster, who is now on the force's wanted list.

The teenager, described as a pale and skinny white boy with tattoos, made his getaway as was he being driven from a secure training centre in Rochester to another centre in Kent, in a vehicle provided by a national secure escort service.

He had been at the centre since Wednesday.

A spokesman for Camden council said: "The Youth Justice Board organise placements for all children on secure remand and we were moving him at their request to where a bed was available.

"He does not have a history of violence. We are working with Kent police to ensure he is found as quickly

CASUALTIES: Floral tribute to one of the motorists killed on notorious stretch of the A228 in Grain

'Killer' road gets cameras at last

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

SPEED cameras have been placed on a road which has claimed the lives of seven people in the last five years.

The average speed cameras, previously only used in Kent for temporary roadworks on the M2 and M20, were set up on a 7.5km section of the notorious A228 in Grain on Monday.

This remote stretch of road has earned its gruesome "killer" tag by playing host to nearly 60 crashes since 2002 – including seven deaths and nine serious injuries.

Save lives

Mandy Vance, of Lower Stoke, welcomed the use of speed cameras, saying: "I think the cameras are a good thing."

"A few of my friends have been killed along this road and so if the cameras can slow drivers down they can save lives."

"Something had to be done and the people who live along this road have wanted speed cameras for a long time."

Pupils from Stoke Community School, including Mandy's eight-year-old daughter Danni, released 57 balloons at the launch event in memory of those killed or injured on the road.

A tag designed by the pupils encouraging motorists to slow down was attached to each one.

Kent and Medway Safety Camera

Partnership spokeswoman Rachel Wall said: "Today is about remembering those who have tragically lost their lives or been injured on the A228."

"It is also a time to look forward to where the new cameras will prevent other families suffering the same anguish and improve the quality of life for residents of the A228."

"As with all our safety cameras, the speed check enforcement system (SPECS) will be signed, painted yellow and listed on our website so motorists know where they are operating."

"The aim of the partnership is not to catch people speeding, but to encourage them to slow down to prevent crashes."

Medway council's frontline services manager, Phil Filmer, said: "People in Medway have been requesting safety cameras on the A228 for some time and I am so pleased this request has finally been met."

"We hope the new installation of the speed cameras will drastically reduce casualties on this road."

The cameras cost £500,000 and were funded by the government and the council.

SPECS is a digital safety camera system providing point-to-point speed enforcement based on the calculation of average speed.

RESIDENTS are being asked to lend a helping hand during a community clean-up day.

Neighbourhood officers will take to the streets in Parkwood at noon on Saturday to pick up litter, and they want volunteers to join them.

Police community support officer Sam Dixon said: "If every resident was prepared to give up just one hour of their time we could achieve a great deal and really make a difference."

Quiet night inn after fireworks are nicked

'Attacking town is out of order'

Why Crouch should rise above taunts

EXCLUSIVE

BY SIMON ROBINSON

MP Paul Clark has slammed England striker Peter Crouch for putting the boot into Gills fans in his autobiography.

Mr Clark, a keen Gills supporter who recently broke both wrists during a two-a-side football match, laid into the 6ft 7ins Liverpool forward for likening the Priestfield faithful to "the hillbillies in the film Deliverance".

The Gillingham and Rainham MP said: "I haven't read the book and it certainly won't be on my Christmas list, but from reading the extracts quoted in last week's Yourmedway criticising the fans I was quite surprised.

"I don't condone name calling and can understand he may have been upset by some of the things the fans shouted, but you would expect "Attacking the town as a whole as well is totally out of order.

"I'd suggest anyone who reads his book should come to Medway and see how rich we are in terms of history and moving ahead with regeneration, and then make their own judgement."

Crouch, famed for his ridiculous robot dance goal celebration, slammed Gills fans for poking fun at his giant frame when he was just starting out in the game.

England star recalls playing at Priestfield

EXCLUSIVE

BY SIMON ROBINSON

ENGLAND striker Peter Crouch has laid the boot into Gills fans in his autobiography, likening them to "the hillbillies in the film Deliverance".

The 26-year-old, who has sunk to the role of benchwarmer following the arrival of top international striker Fernando Torres at the club, wrote: "Looking around at the faces of the home support at Gillingham, the irony was never lost on me that these people had the cheek to call me a 'freak'.

"Perhaps they should have taken a look at themselves first."

Not content with shaming the Gills fans who taunted him so mercilessly, Crouch fires a couple of shots at Gillingham as a whole.

Recalling his dad's first visit to the town he told of a pub where regulars were, "watching 'Supermarket Sweep' and betting on it", before going on to describe seeing a father pouring oil into a drain while his son wrestled with a Staffordshire bull terrier.

Infection outbreak closes three wards

HEALTH bosses say three wards at Medway Maritime Hospital will remain closed until at least tomorrow after an outbreak of the winter vomiting bug.

The restrictions were put in place following 17 cases of Norovirus bacterial infection being reported on Monday.

Hospital bosses yesterday said they were still dealing with 12 patients struck down by the bug.

Regulations say the closures must remain in place for 72 hours following the last recorded case, as symptoms can remain hidden for up to two days.

The Medway NHS Trust said the hospital's Byron, Nelson and Tennyson wards are currently closed to admissions and transfers homes have been delayed.

In order to combat the spread of the condition cleaning of the wards has also been stepped up.

A trust spokesman said: "We have restricted visiting to the wards as this infection does spread easily and could potentially affect visitors.

"Patients receive supportive treatments if they are suffering from cases of diarrhoea and/or vomiting."

Book pays tribute to our wartime pilots

Honouring defenders of the skies

BRAVE: A Dornier bomber flies over the River Medway

■ BY NICK AMES

A new book called The Heroes of Fighter Command: Kent has just been published in time for this year's Remembrance Sunday.

It tells the story of the band of pilots who Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill described as "The Few" and their achievement in beating off the might of the Nazi Luftwaffe in the summer of 1940 – so halting the threat of a British invasion by Hitler's forces.

The Battle of Britain was fought in the skies above Kent and the story of the handful of RAF heroes has been documented by author Rupert Matthews – whose father flew Blenheim bombers targeting the invasion forces during the battle.

"I focussed on Kent because it was the busiest county when it comes to the battle, with airfields like Detling and Eastchurch and the docks at Chatham and Sheerness coming under heavy attack.

"What struck me most of all during my research was the way the pilots kept going, day after day, week after week, month after month.

"It was all on such a grinding scale – constantly flying up to engage the enemy, then the risk of being bombed while on the ground.

"The way those pilots and their ground crew coped – up against overwhelming odds on a continual basis I found truly inspiring."

Kent's squadrons first saw action on November 21, 1939, when two pilots were on patrol in Hurricane fighters over Folkestone.

They spotted a German Dornier on a reconnaissance mission and sent it crashing into the sea trailing smoke.

The initial attacks by the enemy bombers focussed on channel convoys and radar stations with the airfields then coming under attack.

But the Luftwaffe switched its attention to cities on the orders of Hitler after an RAF plane bombed Berlin – just at a time when the fighter bases and command centres were on the verge of collapse.

Eventually the attackers suffered such severe losses that they stopped the daily raids – but it would be five years before the Nazi jackboot was brought to heel by the Allies.

Numerous memorials to the battle dot the Kent countryside.

The statue of a fighter pilot and a replica Hurricane and Spitfire draw thousands of people a year to a site on the cliffs just outside Folkestone.

"Kent has remembered its heroes and my book pays tribute to them," said Mr Matthews. "It is a tribute to the gallant young men who flew sortie after sortie against desperate odds – heroes every one of them."

Cold war sub is worth a look

ONE of the most popular attractions at Chatham Historic Dockyard is HMS Ocelot – an Oberon class attack built when the cold war with the Soviet Union was at its most tense.

The ship was laid down at Chatham in November 1960 and was launched two years later.

Her silent electric engines made HMS Ocelot perfect for secret missions and although very little has ever been released as to her naval service, it is known that in the first three years of her commission she sailed over 90,000 miles.

On one occasion during a mock attack she surfaced undetected in New York Harbour, while at another time she came within torpedo range of the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz while testing out the giant vessel's defence systems.

This action prompted a review of security across the entire US Navy.

Visitors are amazed that her crew would remain enclosed in the submerged vessel for more than three months on a single patrol – with no showers and just a handful of sinks and toilets.

HMS Ocelot was finally sold for scrap in 1992 but was saved from the breaker's yard by the dockyard that built her – she now attracts thousands of visitors each month.

Armed robbers jailed for a total of 39 years

THE three robbers who saw the fourth member of their gang shot dead by police have all been handed hefty jail sentences for a series of raids on security vans.

They were arrested almost exactly a year ago after they were caught by waiting armed officers in New Romney High Street.

'Teflon Bob' Haines, 41, a bouncer from Challock, opened fire with his sawn off shotgun and was immediately brought down by a police marksman. The other three were arrested and quickly linked to a series of raids across the county.

All the raids were carried out by ambushing security vans delivering large quantities of cash to building societies in Strood, Paddock Wood, Birchington, New Romney and Herne Bay. In total the robberies netted almost £340,000.

■ BY NICK AMES

On Friday David Jenkins, 61, a maintenance manager from Pantheon Gardens, Ashford, was found not guilty of the firearms offence but guilty of robbery and sentenced to 10 years.

His accomplices, who had already admitted conspiracy to commit armed robbery, were caged as well. Dean Jenkins, 40, a company director from Wilks Close, Rainham, was sentenced to 17 years, and Ben Jason Grehan, 22, a scaffolder, from south London, for 12 years.

Each robbery was committed at night and at the moment when the last cash was being delivered.

In every case a man appeared wearing a bal-clava and dark clothes and carrying a sawn-off shotgun which he used to threaten guards and order them to hand over cash.

Judge Philip Statman said the robberies were "ruthless" and commended Kent Police and the Metropolitan Police Flying Squad for their part in bringing the offenders to justice.

Detective Chief Inspector Tim Smith, who led the investigation, said: "The incidents involved innocent people being threatened and in some cases violence was used against them, resulting in them being in fear of their lives."

"This disregard for others and the seriousness of the crime has been reflected by the sentences imposed. We have worked together with the Crown Prosecution Service to take these dangerous men off the streets."

Detective Chief Inspector Steve Richardson from the Flying Squad added: "These men played significant roles in a series of violent armed robberies, where guns were used to intimidate guards. The robbery of cash in transit companies is not a victimless crime, with the delivery guards often suffering physically and physiologically."

Lottery grant breathes new life into mortuary

A RARE Victorian mortuary has been given more than £42,000 in lottery cash to help fund its restoration.

The charnel house in the grounds of St Helen's Church, Cliffe, dates back to the 19th century. Heritage Lottery Fund manager Sheena Vick said the restoration would ensure people would understand the building's purpose and history.

Car driver runs down a dad

A FATHER of five was mown down and left for dead in a sickening hit and run incident.

Andrew King, 46, from Hoo, was run over as he walked to his car on Monday night.

The impact threw him across the car's bonnet, his head hit the windscreen, knocking him unconscious.

He suffered two black eyes, blurred vision and pain to his back.

Andrew said: "I'm hopeful they catch whoever drove into me. I had no chance to get out of the way. The driver definitely did it on purpose."

The incident happened in the car park at The Mount, Chatham, at 7pm.

He remembers spotting a dark Mark 3 Fiesta moving off without its headlights on and signaling this to the driver and his passenger.

The motorist responded by speeding up and slamming into him before driving away. Both the driver and his passenger were thought to be young men.

After coming to, Andrew staggered back to his ex-wife's house in the same road, where he had been to see two of his sons, where he called police.

Head's pride as PM uses school motto in speech

THE headteacher of Howard School said he was delighted Prime Minister Gordon Brown cited the school's motto during a speech on his vision for the country's education system.

The Prime Minister used the motto, 'To strive and achieve is to succeed', during a speech at the University of Greenwich on Wednesday.

Paul Morris, who took over at the Rainham secondary school in the summer, said: "We're really pleased Mr Brown recognised the school's work in improving opportunities and standards in the last three years."

Paul Clark, Rainham and Gillingham MP, said: "In recent years the school has lived up to its motto."

ROCHESTER Cathedral will feature on prime-time TV on three consecutive Sundays.

The Norman monument will appear on Songs of Praise's Remembrance Day edition on Sunday, before providing the setting for fellow BBC1 favourite, Antiques Roadshow, for the following two weeks.

The Dean of Rochester, the Very Rev Adrian Newman, said: "This will help raise awareness of our fundraising campaign and hopefully help to bring more visitors to Rochester generally."

Songs of Praise starts at 5.25pm and will also feature Chatham Historic Dockyard. The Antiques Roadshow starts at 8pm.

QUESTION & ANSWER

CHARLIE HENDRY

Q What is your professional background and how did you come to Kent?

A After leaving York University I joined the fire service in London, starting out as a firefighter aged 23 and worked my way through to assistant chief in charge of operations in the capital, before being appointed the deputy in Kent in 2000. When my predecessor retired last year I was promoted to chief fire officer.

Q What does your job entail?

A Running the best fire service in the UK! A lot of what I do inevitably involves trying to make sure we can get the resources we need from government and setting out the future direction for the service in Kent. A lot of meetings, a lot of paperwork, but I still wouldn't do another job. I also try to get around to as many of my stations as I can to talk to and listen to staff, and even still go out to incidents from time to time. The Channel Tunnel also takes up a fair amount of my time as I'm an independently appointed member of the Channel Tunnel Safety Authority.

Q What are your favourite aspects in terms of firefighting in Kent?

A Working with a great team and making a difference to people's lives. I also still love the buzz of going to incidents and trying to restore order from chaos.

Q And your least favourite?

A Paperwork and endlessly trying to convince policymakers there is so much more the fire service could do to help if only they would recognise it.

Q What areas need to improve?

A Although we're one of the very best in terms of performance, we can still get better. I have an ambition to see no fire deaths or injuries in Kent. We're getting there, but it's getting harder. We need to recruit more widely to complement the great staff we already have – if communities don't feel they can identify with their fire service we'll fail to protect them as well as we could.

Q What are the biggest challenges?

A The challenges of major incidents are always at the front of my mind. This year we've had a major oil tank fire, floods and an earthquake! And I'm proud of the way we coped with them all.

Q Are there any Kent initiatives planned for the future?

A We're looking at a number of changes, but people should be reassured that we are determined to maintain and even improve standards. We're looking to invest in new equipment so we can tackle the increasing risk of floods and we also want to update firefighting equipment so we can use less water. The other area we'll be investing in is road safety – there are more serious road accidents than serious fires now.

Q How does Kent fire and rescue service compare with other forces?

A We're consistently in the top two and in many areas we're the best in the country. We have the lowest figures for people being killed or injured by fire in their homes and we're also reducing arson, road accidents and false alarms. This is certainly one of the safest places to live now as far as fire risk is concerned.

Q What's been your biggest achievement in your career in Kent?

A Changing our focus to prevention rather than just cure. Stopping over 150 people a year being killed or injured by fire in their own homes and reaching every school child in Kent with fire safety training. This is about building a safer future.

Q What would you like to achieve?

A Zero fire deaths and the best performing fire service in the UK year after year.

Constructed on a solid aluminium base with a tough protective polycarbonate shroud, the coastal weather station is available in two colours. Wall mounted. Dimensions: 300x150mm. Weather forecasting with your coastal weather station.

Synchronised to the moon's daily cycle, the combination time and tide clock gives you an innovative and convenient guide to tides, whilst also providing conventional time keeping. The quartz driven tide hand will rotate every 12 hours and 25 minutes around the solid stainless steel fascia, giving you the state of the tide at a glance. This design also provides an indication of how many hours remain until high or low water.

The black conventional clock hands work quite independently from the tide hand and can be adjusted using the small fly wheel on the back of the movement. The tide hand can be adjusted using the larger wheel, again found on the back of the movement.

Mountie in the county focuses on safe option

■ BY ED HILL

A TOP Mountie came to Kent this week to share the secret of how they always get their man.

Superintendent Ward Clapham said getting communities to embrace policing was the key to their success in making cities safe.

The senior Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer was the guest speaker at a community safety conference at Ashford International Hotel on Friday.

He told representatives from Kent police, Kent Fire and Rescue Service, Kent County Council and several other councils from across the county about the Mounties' philosophy in reducing crime.

Supt Clapham is the leader of the third largest force in Canada, which is based in Richmond, British Columbia.

Richmond is on one of the islands that make up part of the Greater Vancouver Regional District.

Mike Hill, KCC's community services chief, said: "This is an annual event that we put on in conjunction with the Kent police authority.

"Supt Clapham is recognised across the world as a specialist in this area. We were very interested in hearing what he had to tell us.

"He is very active in implementing the philosophy behind community policing at all levels. This is something they take very seriously in Canada."

The superintendent's area of E division is densely populated by Canadian standards.

The city has been subject to a large amount of immigration since the 1990s, and 50 per cent of its population come from an Asian background. The city has been recognised as one of the safest in Canada.

Mr Hill said: "We are very concerned with this area.

FEEL THE FORCE: Superintendent Ward Clapham of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police came to Kent to share his experiences

"The way forward is for communities to get involved in their own policing. It is up to all of us to help the police wherever we can. That was the theme of the conference.

"We want to find ways that all community organisations can work together, which includes the police, local councils, fire and rescue services and other groups."

Supt Clapham said: "I have been with the mounted police for 27 years. I am sure we can learn a lot from each other.

"For example, here in the UK you have much tougher legislation, allowing you to deal with high-risk offenders that I think we could adopt back home."

As part of his visit, Supt Clapham accompanied police community support officers and community wardens on their rounds in Meopham, near Gravesend.

He said: "The role of PCSOs and community wardens is something I am really keen to learn more about. We do not have anything like them in Canada.

"I think that there are times when it is not necessary to have a fully qualified officer dealing with problems. These people can engage more quickly with the people in their community."

The community safety unit in Ashford has been recognised as a service that could suffer cuts because of recent budget constraints on local councils from central government.

The sex criminals 'still a danger to our children'

KENT has the sixth highest number of sex offenders in the UK – according to figures published this week.

The county has a total of 49 people who have committed a serious sex offence such as rape or assault on a child.

All are classified as Level Three offenders – which means they have served a prison sentence but can never be considered safe.

They are mainly housed in hostels and their identities concealed.

The greatest number, 158, are resident in the Greater Manchester area.

Michele Elliott, director of children's charity Kidscape, said: "Level Three offenders in particular will continue to be a danger to children – and I bet none of the Government ministers or people working in this field have these offenders living next door to them."

Nationally, 1,201 offenders are housed. All are meant to be under the scrutiny of multi-agency public protection arrangements and social workers.

Kent has a better record when it comes to knife crime, ranking 15th in a nationwide survey of crime statistics.

Figures show that during April, May and June this year, 79 offences were reported in the county, whereas in London 1,580 knife crimes were recorded.

Gang culture put in the spotlight of police study

A STUDY into why young people choose to join gangs will be carried out by Kent police.

The online survey will be launched this month and look into lifestyle choices made by teenagers, as well as focus on their attitudes to peer pressure and social issues.

Police officers will also visit schools and talk to young people to raise awareness.

Three main types of groups are being studied – delinquent groups, organised gangs, and organised criminal networks.

Assistant Chief Constable Adrian Lepard said: "We need to understand this phenomenon, which is problematic in other areas of the country.

"By carrying out this research, we can take measures to try to prevent this problem appearing in Kent."

Extra support is more than a half-measure

THERE are 116 million unworn bras in the UK's underwear drawers, according to research by Playtex.

The lingerie company claims that, if laid end-to-end, they would stretch around the world twice. One of the main reasons for bras being discarded is a poor fit, with a fifth of women guessing at their size. In response to this Playtex has launched My Size, a range of bras available in half-sizes from A to D.

yourmedwayblogger

Each week we get a mystery writer to air their views on living in Medway...

Don't bother recycling, a new car will save you bags

HANDS up if you care about your carbon footprint. Yes, as I thought, very few of you actually...

Our individual little black mark on the planet has become a buzz word and of course those clever marketing people have decided it's the new way to make us buy more stuff.

Did you know for example that if you chose to drive one of Volkswagen's new hatchbacks you can save the equivalent of 25,000 plastic bags every year? Yes, they made a whole TV advert to tell us just that, and no doubt quite a few green and caring folk will buy one.

But all the advert proved to me was that plastic bags are obviously very, very cheap. When you think about it one person buying a VW Polo can save, I'd guess, the plastic bag output of the average Tesco every day.

So instead of trying to sell me a bag for life if Tesco ran a fleet of VW Polos they could prove, on paper at least, that we, and the planet, were all up on the deal.

Genius.

As far as I'm concerned, so long as our chums in China continue building a coal-fired power station every half hour, or whatever it is, then my puny effort to save the planet makes absolutely no difference at all.

And before you get all upset, yes I do make a token effort – only the other week I bought a bag for life (specifically because it can hold bottles of wine more safely) which also made a terrific rubbish sack for the kitchen bin.

The other week I was reading a piece by David Bellamy, yes the very same bearded doctor who used to teach us all about the wildlife of this country when we were young and TV didn't have so many stations.

I'm prepared to accept he knows a lot more about this whole greenhouse effect thing than I do, and there he was saying that scientists have mainly got it wrong.

Britain has been warming up for a couple of hundred years since the end of the mini ice age which ran from the 15th century to the middle of the 19th.

He pointed out that the Romans used to grow grapes in York. And then he gave a stack of good reasons why the Earth's temperature naturally goes up and down and there is no proof that the increase in carbon dioxide emissions has actually added to that.

Those boffin types may well have computer models that prove it does, but Bellamy says they've got it wrong too.

So either way there isn't really a lot to be bothered about, is there?

I either buy a new small hatchback and save 25,000 plastic bags a year. Or I drive the biggest comfiest motor I can find and buy a bag for life. Or I sign up to the whole recycling con – which is really about cutting the amount of holes in the ground we fill with our rubbish.

My carbon footprint is pathetically small and even if we all "make the effort and do our bit" as we are urged to do, that still won't stop our Asian cousins polluting the planet.

Green Party warns of commuter misery

GREEN PARTY campaigners say they are concerned at delays in plans to improve commuter railway services – claiming that travellers face a decade of rail misery.

New carriages have been promised by rail companies and the infrastructure is set for improvement under a Government initiative to promote rail travel.

The move is part of an overall environmental strategy aimed at cutting down on carbon emissions.

But the latest official estimates say the Crossrail scheme – which will connect parts of London to the main regional network – will not be operational until 2017.

Thameslink services, which will link Kent's lines to the rest of the UK network, are also behind schedule and will not be ready until 2015, it is feared.

Rail bosses say the delays are necessary to avoid problems when the lines do become operational.

But Dr Hazel Dawe, of Kent Green Party, said the decisions should have been taken far earlier to bring services on line much more quickly.

She said: "Rising rail use and insufficient seats in the rush hour means Kent's rail commuters face a working decade of ever more unpleasant rail journey experiences."

"Given climate change and the imminent peaking of global oil supplies, Government investment in public transport alternatives to the private car should have occurred years ago."

Parents steer children into wrong exams

■ BY SIMON ROBINSON

PUSHY parents suffering from 'academic snobbery' are leading thousands of children each year down the wrong educational path, according to research from industry expert group Edge.

The group's in-depth study found more than half of parents in Kent blindly nudge their youngsters towards taking A-levels and going on to university, despite knowing nothing about many of the other options available.

The Parents Panel – made up of more than 5,000 parents with children aged between 11 and 16 – uncovered a host of ill-informed traditional viewpoints, ingrained prejudices and much more besides.

Almost half of those questioned said they would urge their child to take A-levels over equivalents such as BTEC qualifications, which only 18 per cent would consider at all.

Almost twice as many people – 35 per cent – went so far as to say that vocational courses, such as plumbing, motor mechanics and midwifery, were only for pupils who failed to shine in core subjects at school.

These out-of-date beliefs have had a devastating effect on the choices made by school-leavers.

More than one in five teenagers and young professionals told the group they had taken a wrong turn in their education and more than a third of those questioned laid the blame for that squarely at their parents' door.

Almost 40 per cent of youngsters said they would take A-levels partly because their parents wanted them to go to university.

CHOICES: There are other options than just A-levels

Garry Hawkes, chairman of Edge, said he wanted to use the Parents Panel findings to tackle the traditional bias against vocational qualifications, which currently results in too many people evaluating personal success by academic achievements.

This, he said, contributed to the feeling of 18 per cent of parents stating they would be disappointed if their child ended up in a practical career.

Mr Hawkes said: "We've been concerned for some time at how academic snobbery is influencing the lives of young people and our research shows the unfortunate truth that it has resulted in thousands of young people being directed down the wrong route every year, and therefore being turned off learning."

"Parents naturally want to do what's best for their child, but by their own admission they aren't armed with all the facts about the learning options available and this is costing some young people dearly. We're challenging all parents to stop thinking of academic qualifications as the only route to success."

Edge has launched a scheme called Another Way Forward for parents to consider other options – visit www.edge.co.uk for details.

Shock jocks at Invicta tell their deepest secrets

■ BY GARY WRIGHT

PSST! Want to hear a secret? Want to see your favourite radio presenters confess all?

Then make sure you tune in to top Kent commercial radio station Invicta FM next week – and then log on to our free broadband online TV channel www.yourkenttv.co.uk.

Bosses at the top station have ordered a host of its biggest names to confess their deepest secrets on camera in one of the most revealing stunts the station has ever staged.

And best of all, you can watch the likes of breakfast show king and queen James Heming and Ali Wheeler spill the beans on our website.

An insider at the hits-heavy radio station revealed: "In many cases listeners to the DJs' shows will, for the first time, be able to see the presenters and look into their eyes as they reveal some of their worst moments.

Shocking

"This is going to be surprising, embarrassing and shocking. It's a brilliant idea. The presenters have to tell fans something about themselves that they could never find out any other way. And the best part about it all is that it is all helping raise money for disadvantaged children."

Every confession will be broadcast on Yourkenttv.co.uk from next Monday. KOS Media, publishers of this newspaper and broadcasters of Yourkenttv – will give £1 to the Help a Kent Child for every person that registers that week.

Registration is completely free and not only will members be able to upload their own video clips, they will also receive e-editions of our newspapers completely free.

The station has adopted the charity which raises funds to help disadvantaged young people to fulfil dreams and ambitions they would never have thought possible.

There are many children in Kent who experience the negative effects of poverty, abuse, neglect, homelessness, violence, crime, illness and disability; who are carers for their own parents or who are indirect victims of domestic violence or suffer daily pain due to illness.

In this world of glamour and gain, these are the children Invicta FM and KOS Media want

Nationwide battle to save post offices

MEDWAY council bosses were yesterday expected to kick-start a national campaign to save the country's post offices.

It is thought cabinet members would back plans to form an all-party delegation charged with spurring the Local Government Association to fight Royal Mail's proposed cutbacks.

More than 2,500 branches across the UK – including 58 in Kent – risk being axed in the first wave of savings as the postal service looks to turn its financial fortunes around.

The Medway council leader has already voiced his concerns over the proposals, writing to Royal Mail last month to register his objection.

Cllr Rodney Chambers wrote: "The proposals are particularly ill-thought given that Medway's population is set to grow by 50,000 during the next 10 years, with a resultant requirement for greater access to post office services, not less."

The Royal Mail's six week consultation period on their proposals ends on Monday.

to help.

Breakfast show presenters James and Ali were the first to be caught by our camera crew. Ali said: "I took a deep breath and just let it all come out."

Next the camera team cornered daytime presenter Claire Lawson, who admitted her worst moment.

Claire, who is on air every weekday between 10am and 2pm, said: "It was a shock to be confronted, but I realised I had no choice. I'm not sure what the listeners will make of it!"

Afternoon show presenter Andy Walker initially refused to reveal anything more about himself, but as station bosses put their foot down the truth finally came out.

"I just hope my mum doesn't see it," he said.

Drivetime presenter Neil Kefford was prepared and he just told the truth.

"There was no other way," he said.

Evening presenter Stephen Sullivan almost escaped, but no-one could be left out and he too was forced to reveal all.

So get ready for a week of surprises and a few red faces too – and for once you'll be able to see the fear in their eyes!

From a life-long love of silent movies, Paul Merton is now sharing his passion of early comedy in a compelling new live show

Clowning around

PAUL MERTON'S SILENT CLOWNS

Friday, November 16
Assembly Hall Theatre,
Tunbridge Wells

■ BY JAMES RAMPTON

SILENCE is golden, according to Paul Merton, and he wants to share his love of mute clowns with audiences in Kent.

After 17 years as a team captain on the hugely popular panel show Have I Got News For You, Merton has mastered the art of comic chat. But what first ignited his love of comedy? Merton, 50, gives an instant reply; silent movies.

"It all goes back to when I was 14," recalls the comic. "I went to the local cinema to see The General, Buster Keaton's classic 1927 silent film, which was accompanied by a live piano player. Even though the movie was at that point 50 years old, I was amazed by the power it still possessed. 'Wow,' I thought, 'how on earth did he do that?' I came out of the cinema walking on air."

And so a lifelong love affair with silent movies was born.

That relationship has now come to fruition with Paul Merton's Silent Clowns, a compelling new live show, during which Merton, an acknowledged expert, will screen extracts from the best silent comedians in some of their funniest films.

In the second half of the show, Paul will introduce a screening of Harold Lloyd's deathless silent masterpiece, Safety Last!. The film delivers a marvellously engaging combination of thrills and laughs which is as potent today as it was when the movie was first released in 1923. Perhaps the most stunning aspect of the movie is that it contains not a single special effect.

The screening of Safety Last! will be accompanied by pianist Neil Brand, who has gained worldwide renown over the past 25 years for his dazzling, virtuoso performances at silent movies at the NFT and at film festivals across the globe.

Audiences today are astonished by the bravery of the silent movie stars who did all their own stunts. The era was a health and safety nightmare and Merton is certain the likes of Keaton and Lloyd would not be allowed to make films today.

"But that only adds to their brilliance," he insists. "Look at that most famous stunt in Steamboat Bill Jr., where the house falls on Keaton and he is saved by standing in the space left by the window. He was unbelievably brave."

Merton's love of silent movies has in fact already manifested itself in his own wordless film, The Suicidal Dog, and he would love to direct again.

"I think about making films all the time," he concludes. "It's what I'd love to do above all else, but at the moment I'm too busy. However, if everything else stopped, then I could really concentrate on directing a movie. I really appreciate the success I've had, but I'd swap it all if I could direct one really good, intelligent movie that didn't treat its audience like morons and still worked in twenty years time."

Paul Merton's Silent Clowns starts at 8pm and tickets cost £14.50. To book, call 01892 530613/532072 or visit the website at www.assemblyhall-theatre.co.uk.

Brook Theatre, Chatham

EXPERIENCE the mystifying talents of the Psychic Detective when Keith Charles comes to Chatham.

Describing himself as a "human telephone link between this world and the next", Charles has worked with renowned

ADRIAN NEWMAN

The Dean of Rochester tells us what he likes about Medway and his plans for the future

What do you like and dislike about Medway?

I really like the river as it's the thing that connects everything in Medway, and I think it gives the whole area a richness of character and history that I love. In terms of what I dislike, the thing that struck me most when I moved here was that Medway had quite a negative view of itself. I continue to find it strange that there's such a wide gap in aspiration between those who live here and those people from outside Medway who see our future in such exciting terms. I'd like to see us take a much more positive attitude to what we've got here and the sort of future we could create together.

How does being the Dean of Rochester compare with other positions you've held and what plans have you got in the pipeline?

This is the first time I've worked outside of a big city, which brings a different perspective. I continue to be amazed at how many doors my title opens and how open people are to the involvement of the cathedral. I think my role is to help people recognise the spiritual dimension to the major issues facing Medway over the years ahead. Human beings are not just producers and consumers, but change-makers have a tendency to forget this. The biggest task facing us is to make sure that all of the vision, energy and resources of the cathedral are engaged with the real and pressing issues of the community around us. We've already got projects on the go with young people, education, music, the arts, and social regeneration, and there is a lot more planned to place the cathedral at the hub of the renaissance of Medway.

'Freak' Crouch says Gills fans are 'hillbillies'

England star recalls playing at Priestfield

EXCLUSIVE
BY SIMON ROBINSON

England star Peter Crouch has said the Gillingham fans are "hillbillies" in his autobiography. Crouch, who has scored five goals in seven appearances for the club, described the fans as "a bit of a nuisance" and "a bit of a pain". He also said that he was "a bit of a nuisance" to the fans and that he was "a bit of a pain".

How dare Peter Crouch launch an attack on the faithful fans of Gillingham FC?

A bit of crowd banter is a part of the game and it shows his complete lack of professionalism to get so riled up about a few chants many years ago.

Clark makes painful slip in church hall

EXCLUSIVE
BY SIMON ROBINSON

MP Paul Clark suffered broken wrists in a freak sporting accident – leaving him with both arms in plaster. Mr Clark, who represents Gillingham and Rainham, tumbled during a two against two kickabout in Twydall Church Hall on Friday, breaking his right wrist and completely shattering his left.

Despite the horrific breaks Mr Clark was unaware of the extent of his injuries and played on alongside his team mate, Reverend Gill Tovar.

An MP with a sense of humour

Crouch looks and acts like a freak

Peter Crouch is an idiot. He looks like a freak when he plays football and now he's started acting like a freak by slagging off Gills fans in his new book.

He needs to realise that the crowd gave him stick because anyone nearly 7ft tall is abnormal! He looks gawky and ungainly, and no one that tall should be so bad at heading the ball.

Thankfully his England and Liverpool career seems to be plummeting without a trace... hopefully his abuse of Gillingham will disappear with him.

Royal visits remain a delight for many people and it shows the affections in which the Royal Family is still held that so many people will turn out to greet senior members.

I went along on the day to Brompton Barracks and the spectators were all having a great time. Her Majesty looked in good health, relaxed and genuinely happy to be at the barracks. She is a credit to our nation and I know the many children brought along by schools and playgroups will never forget the day they saw their Queen, who really did look a picture dressed all in pink.

Bonfire Night is a long-held tradition

Your blogger last week hit out at Guy Fawkes celebrations – but they might be interested to know that it was the Government who first decreed there should be a celebration of his attempted attack.

The year after his efforts to blow up parliament in the early 17th century, ministers actually decreed he should be burnt in effigy as a thanks for the failure of the plot.

So it is an important part of our traditions – not many Government recommendations survive for more than 400 years.

What fool wrote last week's blogger attacking Halloween and Bonfire Night? I always look forward to this time of year as it's one long party all the way through to the New Year.

I went to a brilliant Halloween party last weekend dressed as a dead chav! My mates went as a dead nun, a dead monk and Margaret Thatcher. It was hilarious and a really good way to cope with the onslaught of cold, dark days, which are depressing.

It's also a great time of the year for children, as standing round a bonfire with sparklers and watch the skies light up with fireworks should be a highlight of everyone's youth.

The misery that wrote the blogger should lighten up and have some fun!

Clip of history made me proud of Navy

I saw the short piece in last week's paper and viewed the video clip of HMS Gannet and was very proud to see how much of the vessel's active life was spent fighting the slave trade.

Revisionist historians are always quick to label the British Empire as an evil influence on peace-loving people across the world – but at a time when this practice was still current in many countries our Navy was actively fighting it.

Those who claim this country's legacy is one of strife in emerging countries and former colonial possessions should take note.

A few minutes of peace go a long way

You'll get 20 minutes of peace and quiet, and will be helping people living with cancer at the same time.

Make a little silence make a big difference by getting involved in The Big Hush 2008.

We all know that actions speak louder than words, so why not get your class to keep it zipped for Macmillan's Big Hush on January 25, 2008?

Join teachers and youth leaders across Medway and make silence golden as your pupils get sponsored for every minute they keep quiet.

Or they can simply pay a small amount to take part in the event. Every penny raised will help improve the lives of people affected.

With more than 1.2 million people currently living with cancer in the UK, most of us know someone affected by the disease.

The silence can take place in assembly; during break-time or in class and you can involve single classes, small groups or even the whole school!

It couldn't be easier - or more fun. Last year, schools and groups from across the UK raised over £200,000 for people living with cancer.

This year, we want to raise even more. But we can't do it without you.

YOUR WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY RUSSELL GRANT

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)

IF you are given a choice between working for a flat salary and earning a commission, go for the commission-based deal. Using your sex appeal to change someone's mind could ultimately tarnish your reputation. A sudden raise or bonus sweetens your bank account. This week is wonderful for starting a new job or going on interviews.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)

A LOVE interest's compliments make you feel irresistible. It will be easy to work your charm on everyone you meet. Resist the urge to take advantage of someone who wants to please you. Think twice before making a move unless you intend to pursue a serious romance. A new partnership is possible, but it needs to begin on the right foot.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)

WORKING behind the scenes gives you a renewed sense of confidence. Resist the urge to buy a child or lover's affection, or they will feel manipulated. An exciting romantic rendezvous could satisfy an amorous urge. Don't be afraid to explore your deepest desires. Taking a class gives you the intellectual stimulation you crave.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)

THE chance to go on a trip or take a class could present itself quite suddenly - be prepared to act like lightning. Putting unusual touches on a creative project will prove rewarding. You'll have a welcome chance to pursue private pleasures for the next month, take full advantage of this blissful trend. Adopting a new look is will be good.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)

Be aggressive about pursuing your creative vision, people will defer to you based on your experience. Your unusual style sets you apart from the crowd and opens doors. If you feel as though your employer isn't paying you enough, negotiate for better perks. Getting your boss to pay for advanced training is a distinct possibility.

GEMINI (May 22 - Jun 22)

GO ahead and make an investment in your health. If your relatives don't approve of your partner, be prepared to defend your other half or cracks could start to appear in the foundation of your relationship. An exciting award, promotion, or raise could come your way. It's a pleasure to go into work this week.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sep 23)

Friends encourage you to put your skills to good use. Resist the urge to pressure a relative into an arrangement that makes them uncomfortable. It's better to preserve your relationship than get your way. You could be irresistibly drawn to a love interest that isn't your usual type. If you already have a partner, encourage them to take a bold risk.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

A CLANDESTINE encounter adds spice to your life. Don't try to charm your way out of a problem with your employer. It's best to own up and accept the consequences of a mistake. Female friends will play an increasingly important role over the next month. Look to these ladies for support with a self improvement programme.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

YOU have the courage to break through limitations that were placed on you during childhood. Now you're older, you can spend time on the things you enjoy. Mixing business with pleasure may not be possible, as a colleague with could lord it over everyone else. An exciting new phase of your love life makes difficulties at work more bearable.

CANCER (Jun 23 - Jul 23)

YOUR attractive allure is evident to everyone, allowing you to wrap someone special around your little finger. If you're already in a relationship, take this opportunity to wine and dine your amour. A little romance goes a long way. Be honest with a colleague who is performing under par. A new romance, pregnancy, or creative project could take root.

LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)

YOUR ability to spin straw into gold is a major asset in the workforce. Use a recent success to ask for a raise, promotion, or corner office. An unusual job assignment could put more money in your pocket. Your charm, wit, and sophistication will be at an all time high for the next month; use these gifts to advance your agenda.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 - Jan 20)

PURSuing an intimate relationship pays off handsomely. Don't be afraid to play the aggressor. It feels good to go after what you want. An exciting piece of news prompts you to pursue a cherished dream. Work assumes a more glamorous tone over the next month. A group of intensely creative people could make their way into your life.

African bike adventure goes a long way down

■ BY ANDY WELCH

EVEN though Ewan McGregor and Charley Boorman have just ridden from the tip of Scotland to the southern-most point of Africa across some of the most hazardous terrain on the planet, they can't afford to take time off to relax.

"It's been extremely busy since we got back," says Ewan. "There's an awful lot of stuff you have to deal with after three months away. And we could have gone on longer. When we got to Cape Town at the end of the trip there was a terrible temptation to just turn around and go back up. I didn't want to stop."

The draw of their families, which both admit to missing horrendously, was enough to see that they returned, but not before a quick trip to Kenya with their wives and children to revisit a few of their favourite spots.

The duo completed their first mammoth trip around three years ago, and their travels could be seen in Long Way Round, their first series for the BBC. On their motorcycles, and followed by a small support crew, Ewan and Charley rode from London to New York, but as the title of their escapade suggests, they didn't merely cross the Atlantic to get to the Big Apple. Instead, they rode through France, Belgium, Germany, Czech Republic, Slovakia, Ukraine, Russia, Kazakhstan, Mongolia and Canada before finally reaching their destination.

It was a gruelling trip, but not tough enough to put them off trying something else. The actors, who became best friends after meeting on the set of 1997 film The Serpent's Kiss, originally mentioned the possibility of another journey on Jonathan Ross's chat show some time ago, but it only came to fruition this year.

ON YER BIKE: Charley Boorman and Ewan McGregor rode from Scotland to the southern tip of Africa

And two shows into the six-part series – Long Way Down – viewers are hooked again.

"The preparations were much smoother this time," says Ewan, looking nothing like a film star in workman's boots, jeans and a fleece jacket. "We knew what we wanted to take and what we didn't want to take, and we knew we wanted to go on the BMW bikes."

If preparations were smoother, the trip was more difficult than their previous effort which introduced thousands to adventure biking.

"It was definitely different," ponders Ewan. "Because we'd done Long Way Round, we were all looking for unique things and sometimes that was conflicting. It caused some moments that weren't as harmonious as others. That's a nice way of putting it, isn't it?" he beams with a trademark smile.

"I think if you spend that much time together," adds Charley, "you know, you're bound to have the odd bicker. You'd be spectacularly odd if you didn't. But we'd get time on our own when we were riding."

The journey this time around had Ewan and Charley riding down through the UK, across France and through the Alps into Italy. From there, they crossed to Tunisia and began the mammoth African leg of their journey which would have them visiting Libya, Egypt, Sudan, Ethiopia, Kenya, Uganda, Rwanda, Tanzania, Malawi, Zambia, Namibia and Botswana, before finally making their way to Cape Agulhas, the southern-most point of the continent. So, what did Africa have in store?

"People would hear we were going there and say 'Of course, you'll be macheted'. I'd ask whereabouts, and they'd say, 'Everywhere'," laughs Ewan.

Many readers may already know a fair bit about Charley and Ewan's trip thanks to the website which they regularly contributed to using the latest satellite technology.

"Next time, if there is a next time," adds Charley quickly, considering the implications of what he's just said. "If there were enough people saying 'You should go and do this', we could go off and do it."

Next time?

"We've only just got back!" he cries!

ON GENERAL RELEASE

DEATH AT A FUNERAL (15)

A dignified send-off for a loved one erupts into chaos when romance, jealousy, in-laws, secrets and a spot of blackmail collide at the graveside – and a divided family is finally forced to come to terms with each other's bad behaviour. The British cast stars Matthew MacFadyen, Rupert Graves, Jane Asher, Daisy Donovan and Ewen Bremner.

30 DAYS OF NIGHT (15)

In the sleepy and secluded town of Barrow, Alaska, the citizens are preparing for the annual coming of the dark, when the sun will set for more than 30 consecutive days and nights. But this year the dark will bring something else. From across the frosted wasteland, a horrifying evil descends upon Barrow, mercilessly besieging its terrified residents.

THE LOOKOUT (15)

Chris (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) is a once-promising high school athlete whose life is turned upside down following a tragic accident. As he tries to maintain a normal life, he takes a job as a janitor at a bank, where he finds himself caught up in a planned heist.

Cate's age of confrontation

■ BY SHEREEN LOW

WITH her regal stature and ethereal beauty, Cate Blanchett was born to play a queen.

The Australian actress has reprised her award-winning role as Queen Elizabeth I in Elizabeth: The Golden Age almost 10 years since her high-profile debut in Elizabeth.

Dressed in a black sequinned top and wide-legged black trousers, Cate reveals why it has taken so long for the film to be made.

"The structure to this film is quite different," she says, "I wasn't ready for a long time, but they came back with a really interesting script, at the centre of which was a woman who was coming to terms with the fact she was ageing. This is unlike the last time where there was a boy meets girl story and a love triangle."

"I needed to get older, otherwise there's no real story. While the first film was about denial – a woman denying herself in order to rule – this was more about acceptance, and a woman who was having to confront the fact that she was ageing and what that meant."

"It's pertinent to both women and men, that whole fear of ageing which was a huge issue for Elizabeth."

Cate, who was also crowned elf queen Galadriel in the Lord Of The Rings trilogy, has a great admiration for the first Queen Elizabeth.

She says: "I find her incredibly inspiring. She had an amazing intellect and an ability to work her way through uncharted waters while negotiating a minefield of political associations and still keeping everything afloat."

"She was also an incredible patron of the arts, which I find utterly inspiring. The poetry of the time, the music, the literature, the birth of English theatre, Shakespeare is all there in a large part, I think, due to her patronage."

She adds, more poignantly: "When making the film we thought a lot about Diana, Princess of Wales."

"Although we don't know how much is propaganda, one of the things that is repeatedly written about Elizabeth is that she often went out with very little guard and walked around and shook people's hands. So she was able to somehow be untouchable and remote, and also incredibly accessible."

"We were reminded of Diana in terms capturing the public's imaginations and that public feeling that they could connect."

Cate, a mother-of-two, who has been married to Australian playwright and screenwriter Andrew Upton for almost 10 years, said playing the role made her grateful for her own family life and relationships.

"I wouldn't like to be as isolated as she was. I'm lucky I've got a private life that happily and richly balances my work life."

The actress prefers to stay out of the spotlight so she can bring up her two sons – six-year-old Dashiell and three-year-old Roman.

But Cate, who is also starring in the fourth installment of the Indiana Jones franchise – Indiana Jones And The Kingdom Of The Crystal Skull – as well as playing a younger version of music icon Bob Dylan in I'm Not There, isn't sure about completing the Elizabeth trilogy.

"Who knows? We'll have to see how this one does, I think," she says.

Of cowboys and astronauts

BY EMMA ROWLEY

WHERE have all the cowboys gone? Almost certainly to Texas, that most American of states, where even city-dwellers go about hatted and booted – as though they are more likely to ride a horse than a pick-up truck.

When you arrive on George Bush's home patch, you quickly find that the state's lone star flag is as common a sight as the stars and stripes, fluttering from anywhere possible.

To understand where the famous Texan pride comes from, a visit to The Alamo in San Antonio is the obvious place to start. Texans take their history very seriously. It was here, at a former chapel, that a motley band of vastly outnumbered rebels fought to the death against the Mexican army to safeguard their independence.

Not all the stereotypes hold true, though. Forget the desert scenes from cowboy films – Texas is a surprisingly lush state, and its cities are spacious and green. In addition to its cowboy roots, modern Texas is rather proud to have a cultured side.

The McNay Art Museum in San Antonio is the former home of Marion Koogler McNay, who built up a fabulous collection of art. Her legacy is breathtaking: a Spanish-influenced mansion where each room is packed with Renoirs, Monets and Picassos.

CITY: The Texas skyline is strikingly different to the stereotypical image of George Bush's home state

Another San Antonio highlight is a boat ride through the city. The river is banked by bars and restaurants, many of which are happy to arrange a meal for you onboard your barge.

We were served a summery menu by Hotel Contessa and serenaded by a mariachi band. Indeed the Mexican influence on the city, as for much of Texas, is marked, noticeably in the food: delicious tacos, tortillas and burritos are served up in abundance. Throughout the state the food is plentiful, tasty and cheap – which may explain many Texans' waistlines.

From San Antonio we went to Austin, a relatively short drive, made worthwhile by stopping at the tiny outpost that is Luckenbach. It boasts a wooden cabin general store/post office, where musicians play in the back to passers-by. It's the only stop you need make to experience the best of rural Texas.

Houston could not be more different. Everything is bigger in Texas – and nowhere is that more evident than in this city, the focus of the Texan oil industry. According to one city-dweller, Houston sprawls across 70 miles: this is a city built for the car.

Houston also boasts a thriving museum district, ranging from the vast Houston Museum of Natural Science, which has its own butterfly house, to The Buffalo Soldiers National Museum, which uses actors to tell the history of the legendary all-black regiments, from their civil war beginnings to desegregation.

More recent history comes in the form of NASA's Johnson Space Center. For me, the highlight was stepping into the control centre that received the famous and chilling call: "Houston, we have a problem". It still houses the computers used to bring home the astronauts on the Apollo 13 mission. Looking at the clunky machines, it seems a miracle they ever made it into space, let alone came home again.

From ranch settlers to space explorers, it seems Texas still retains that old pioneering spirit.

A new river city in the making?

MEDWAY'S fast-developing 15-year regeneration programme is due to create some 16,000 homes and more than 20,000 jobs, according to the Kent Property Market Report 2007.

The annual report, produced by Kent County Council, Cluttons and Locate in Kent, says that the project – kickstarted by £120m of public money – is expected to turn Medway into the thriving new river-city of the south east.

Investment by the private sector is driving the programme forward.

Medway council has applied for World Heritage Site status for Chatham Dockyard and its defences. The bid includes Fort Amherst, Upnor Castle, Brompton village and barracks, the Pembroke site and the Great Lines.

Key water regeneration sites are Rochester Riverside, Chatham Waterfront, Strood Riverside, Temple Waterfront and Gillingham Pier.

It is expected that the 2012 Olympics will boost Medway's regeneration programme further too.

The report also showed that the area is attracting investment from the hotel sector, with operators poised to invest an estimated £50m in 500 rooms across at least five sites.

National victory for the Vineries Estate

MOAT Housing Association, Word on the Street and residents of the Vineries Estate in Gillingham are celebrating victory at the 2007 National Federation Neighbourhood Awards this week.

The Activity Loft community house is a learning and events centre created by Moat with the direct input of residents.

Opened in July 2006, The Activity Loft, which has become a hub of the community, beat over 300 entries countrywide to the gain the title in the 'Peaceful & Better Neighbourhood' category.

The award was presented by Tricia Goddard at the International Conference Centre in Birmingham.

Graeme Bosely, Moat's community development manager, said: "Since opening we have seen a significant reduction in crime and properties estate have become easier to let, showing that positive achievements do happen when we involve residents with decisions."

It's time to invest in the rental market

BY JENNY SANTOS

AT A TIME of uncertainty in the housing market letting agents across Kent are reporting a shortage of rental properties.

The Association of Rental Lettings Agents (ARLA) has released a new report stating that tenant demand now outstrips supply in all sectors of the rental market.

ARLA says this is consistent with the traditional pattern of 'softening' house prices leading to a growing requirement for rental accommodation.

Debbie Pennell, manager at Ashton Burkinshaw letting agents in Chatham, said: "We need more two and three bedroom properties for couples and sharers. All the statistics point to an expanding rental sector."

So despite widespread speculation of a decline in the buy-to-let market, industry experts are advising potential investors now is a good time to buy.

Property investment specialist Assetz sees the current climate as a good opportunity for investors.

Stuart Law, Assetz chief executive, said: "Whilst the market has been subject to much speculation and turmoil over the last few months, there is significant evidence to suggest that for those taking a medium to long term perspective, now is an excellent time to invest in buy-to-let property."

According to ARLA's last quarterly figures, the average weekly rental income for the South East is £345 a week for houses and £215 a week for flats, putting rents at an all time high. It is predicted that the growth in rents will continue.

Coupled with an increasing number of forced sellers lowering the prices of their properties and bank base rates expected to fall, we could be approaching the most profitable rental income situation for years.

ARLA has just published its annual guide – The ARLA, CML Guide to Buy to Let - in association with the Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML).

Malcolm Harrison, ARLA spokesman, said the aim of the guide is to: "Clarify the role of investment in residential rental housing and

RENTAL: Now is a good time to get a foot on the rental property market according to new report counter any market misunderstandings."

For landlords and tenants it covers the definition of buy-to-let, the opportunities and obligations that go with it, tenancy agreements, tenancy deposit protection, insurance, legal requirements and tax.

It is billed as a useful resource for all those considering dipping a tentative toe into the rental property market.

The guide can be picked up at ARLA registered letting agents and downloaded from www.arla.co.uk

Past and present boost for Caterham's sales

DAYS may be shorter, but crisp mornings and blue skies have helped demand for new and used examples of the Kent-built Caterham Seven roadster.

Sales of used Sevens are up 25 per cent on 2006. Caterham says this may be due to the new Ford Sigma engine version boosting nostalgic interest in outgoing K-Series models like the Superlight R300.

Prices range from low mileage 1.4 105bhp Classics for as little as £9,950 to a two-year-old, range-topping CSR260 for £34,000.

Caterham has sold 12,000 of the lightweight sports car since 1973 and the design is currently celebrating 50 years.

Rugged new Seat has power and practicality

KENT Seat dealers have something different to offer with the launch of the new Altea Freetrack – a genuine sporting 4x4 cum people carrier.

It offers increased ride height and tough-looking styling, plus plenty of power; two models are offered, the 2.0-litre TSI petrol and 2.0-litre TDI diesel, priced at £20,495 and £21,395 respectively.

The newcomers feature a multimedia system with roof-mounted seven-inch screen that can link to DVD and MP3 players, video games and laptop computer.

New power-packed C2 baby from Citroën

HOT hatch and economy car are rarely paired descriptions, but Citroën claims to have managed this with its new 110bhp C2 1.6HDi VTS performance supermini.

Costing just £10,995 at the moment, this punchy little powerhouse – it delivers 80 per cent more pulling power than its petrol-powered stablemate – can reach 60mph in just over nine seconds.

But it is capable of averaging more than 60mpg and delivers CO2 emissions of just 119g/km, qualifying it for Band-B road tax.

LOOKING GOOD: Mercedes has shed its old conservative image with the striking CLS, a sleek four-door coupé which combines style, power and comfort

Big Mercedes CLS has definite feel-good factor

SOMETIMES you can set aside normal factors and go with just one when road testing a car.

It can be summed up as the 'feel-good factor'. You ask yourself: "Would this car lift my soul at first sight in the morning before you even climb behind the wheel?"

The Mercedes CLS is one of those cars.

Admittedly, it is hard to understand why Mercedes decided to make this sleek four-door sports coupé in the first place, when it had models enough to fill niches within niches.

On the other hand, it is a 'halo model' to outshine all others; if you doubted that Mercedes-Benz had shed its old conservative image, this is all the proof needed.

Our test car was the 3.5-litre V6 – the junior petrol model, but still capable of 0-62mph in 6.7 seconds.

It feels and sounds as good as the swooping bodywork suggests, but there is also the bonkers V8 AMG version with its 0-62mph in 4.5 seconds to get the adrenaline pumping.

The canny buy of the range though is the 3.0-litre diesel, with a comparatively modest seven-second sprint time, smooth running and an average of around 35-40mpg.

Whichever you go for though, a slick-shifting seven-speed auto 'box adds to the refined feel of the car and can be set in 'sport' or 'comfort' mode – the latter shifts up earlier rather than holding onto gears for maximum acceleration.

Using the more realistic sport mode – this is a sports coupé after all – the CLS's excellent chassis can be further exploited by using manual selection, though the intelligent auto is good enough to leave for most driving.

The swooping lines of the exterior are skillfully carried over to the interior through sculpted doors and the sweep of the centre console front and back – the car is a four-door 'for four' with two deep and comfortable sports seats in the back even if you have to duck a bit to get into them.

For a sporting car there is also an impressive amount of storage and luggage space.

CLS prices start at £43,962.

Big discount makes a massive deal on Micra

BAILEYS Nissan in Canterbury is highlighting an £800 discount for the revised 2008 model Micra hatchback until December 14.

The deal on the mid-level Acenta brings Bluetooth phone integration, drive computer, speed limit warning, air-conditioning, six-speaker CD system with MP3 jack socket, rear sliding seat, electric door mirrors and front windows.

With the discount, this cuts the price for this well-equipped model to just £7,995.

Baileys' dealer principal Brian Smith said: "The Nissan Micra offers incredible specification at amazing value."

Local reflection on record 'Landie' sales

LAND ROVER sales have hit all-time record levels globally and the local news is good too says Barretts Land Rover at Canterbury and Ashford.

Dealer principal Mark Nicholas said: "Our sales are up five to 10 per cent on 2006 according to model. The Discovery 3 is now our oldest car, but keeps winning awards, while demand for the Range Rover Sport and new Defender is strong. The latest Freelander is our best seller though – its predecessor was good, but the new car is a huge step forward."

Mazda6 is voted used car of the year 2007

MAZDA launches an all-new and more premium Mazda6 into the family car/executive saloon sector soon, after a reminder of its (pictured) predecessor's strengths.

It has just been judged Used Car of The Year 2007 by What Car? magazine, beating more than 3,000.

What Car? used car editor Matt Sanger said the winner was "A great combination of value, reliability and desirability, alongside its fine handling and driving abilities."

SPEED MERCHANT: With striking 'liquid yellow' paintwork and also featuring Renault F1 decals on all sides and the roof, the Clio RenaultSport 197 is hard to miss...

Clio 'curry comet' shows just why it's hot stuff

RENAULT has created a famous dynasty of supermini hot hatches from the Renault 5 GT Turbo and through the Clio years.

Such 'halo models' have helped ensure that a butch 'boy's toy' image balances the French chic that draws the girls to more junior versions.

The latest hot hatch star is the Clio Renaultsport 197 and its ultimate incarnation, the £17,250 limited edition F1 Team R27, celebrating Renault Formula 1 championships in 2005-6. Just 500 of these head-turners are being produced – each featuring a uniquely numbered plaque between sculpted bespoke Recaro front seats.

With striking 'liquid yellow' paintwork and also featuring Renault F1 decals on all sides and the roof, it is hard to miss... never mind the 17-inch anthracite colour alloys, front wing vents, red Brembo brake callipers, muscular wide stance and F1-honed rear diffuser.

But the F1 also walks the talk with two-litres and 197bhp (0-62mph in 6.9 seconds) on tap it not only puts the power down, but handles it in style. Handling and grip is also exemplary due to the lowered and stiffened 'Cup Chassis', now available as an option on the 'standard' Renaultsport 197.

Even more amazing is that this impressive chassis does not have the obvious downside of a teeth jarring ride.

The car's close-ratio six-speed 'box is slick enough for spirited driving, accompanied by a great soundtrack as you flick up and down; track day fans will love the fact that electronic stability control can be switched off for ultimate fun and games.

It might feel a bit wearing on the motorway home though; the close-set gearing means that even top doesn't free you from the throaty grumble of that engine.

For a car costing more than £17,000 there is also still evidence of links with cheaper versions of the Clio, even though the fit and finish of the current range is superior to the past and also brings roominess and practicality.

On the other hand you do get those Recaro seats, plus alloy pedals and chunky leather-clad wheel. No, Renault won't struggle to sell 500 F1s.

USED CAR ROUND-UP: OUR PICK FROM A KEY SECTOR

COMPACT EXECUTIVE SALOONS

GERMAN marques dominate the compact executive saloon market – BMW's 3-Series is a top-10 seller in the UK. But there are good desirable and affordable alternatives for used car buyers seeking a little extra class and comfort without 'going German'. Opt for models that have the most extra goodies on them, because the premium you pay for these will be far less than the original private or company buyer had paid; you could get sat nav and leather, for instance for a few hundred pounds rather than several thousand.

LEXUS IS200

TOYOTA'S luxury arm used the BMW 3-Series as a benchmark for its first compact exec and hit the mark for style, value and driver appeal, but sales were hamstrung by the lack of a diesel. The IS200 also felt underpowered, but was juicy, while the rarer IS300 had the grunt, but was even thirstier. That said the IS-Series makes a great used buy with lots of kit and presence, while the second generation car is still rare on the used market.

JAGUAR X-TYPE

THIS brave attempt to attack dominant German models was affected by taunts that it was a re-worked Ford Mondeo. But this has proved unfair when the X-Type handles so well in both front and four-wheel drive formats. It is also affordable and has built a reputation for reliability, comfort and driver appeal. There is even an estate that is attractive and practical though it does command a premium second-hand. Best of all, there are two quality diesel options.

SAAB 9-3

THERE is a lot of Vauxhall underneath the Saab, but nothing wrong with that in terms of reliability and durability, especially when clothed by a low slung slinky body that deserves the 9-3's 'Sport Saloon' tag. Where the Swede has also scored is with a line-up of sporty yet frugal diesels. For used car buyers, prices should also become more attractive for older examples following a recent radical 9-3 facelift that will become increasingly common on the road.

EMPLOYMENT IS THE GOAL, EDUCATION IS THE KEY

Rainer City Training Solent has an outstanding track record of engaging with under supported young people. Our entry to employment programme (e2e) achieved a 72% success rate, with learners progressing into work, education or further training. Building on our successes in the Solent area we are now establishing our e2e provision in Kent. We are looking for an educational practitioner who can communicate their passion for learning to our young people.

Learning & Employment Co-ordinator

Up to £25,402

Kent – Swale, Thanet & Medway

Ideal for an experienced teacher or trainer, this peripatetic role involves developing and delivering our E2E programme through community based venues in Swale, Thanet and Medway. You'll induct, guide and support E2E learners – assessing their needs and working with them to establish an appropriate Learning Plan. Having done so, you'll then provide training, monitor progress and forge links with other agencies involved in programme delivery.

To meet this challenge, you'll need qualifications in such areas as teaching, training and counselling in the development of learning. An understanding of NVQs and Key Skills is important too, as is the ability to record information. Crucially, you must also be able to communicate with, and relate to, young adults – particularly those who are under supported.

BELIEVING IN YOUNG PEOPLE

Successful candidates will be required to consent to checks by the Criminal Records Bureau and like the idea of service users having a say in their appointment.

Diversity is our strength. Could you make us stronger?

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Event will give youth a head start in business

BUDDING entrepreneurs can learn the tricks of the trade at a business day aimed at inspiring youngsters across Medway.

The Mind Your Own Business event will give school and college students the opportunity to get professional advice on how to get ahead in the business world.

Representatives from 10 businesses will be on hand to raise awareness of enterprise, while people who set up their own companies last year will also tell the youngsters about their own experiences.

Business has become cool since Alan Sugar's The Apprentice and the Dragon's Den TV shows. The event takes place at the Corn Exchange, Rochester on Tuesday, November 13 from 9.30am to 4pm.

Technology buildings plan will create jobs

A HI-TECH business park has applied for planning permission to construct two new technology buildings – which could create more than 100 jobs.

The buildings, one of 15,000 sq ft and the other 20,000 sq ft, are set to be built on an undeveloped plot within the existing security fence of Kent Science Park, near Sittingbourne.

This will provide space for new tenants, as well as accommodating the expansion of existing businesses on site.

If the application is approved, construction work is expected to start early next year.

Invest in skills time for leisure and tourism

A SERIES of free one-day training courses are being offered to leisure and tourism businesses.

Courses include management, communication and e-business training and will be held in the workplace or venue.

Fran Warrington, head of Kent Tourism, which is organising the sessions, said: "For a relatively small investment of time, tourism industry staff can gain valuable new skills and abilities which they can put to work immediately."

Ten participants are needed for each course. Where a company can not commit this number of staff, there is a possibility of combining with other businesses.

Call Kent Tourism on 01622 696936.

Business leaders' desire to play active part in the community

SURVEY: Aimed to get to the heart of needs of local business to help them thrive

BUSINESSES should be at the heart of every community in Kent, according to a new survey.

Eighty-four per cent of business leaders across the county felt they should play an active part in schools and community projects.

The heads of more than 200 organisations and companies, including chambers of commerce, professional bodies and trade organisations, took part in the study carried out by the South East of England Development Agency.

Forty-seven per cent of company chiefs in Kent felt business prospects for the next six months look the same as the last half year, but 23 per cent said the outlook was better.

Disturbingly, 22 per cent of those quizzed felt the forecast was bleak.

Only 32 per cent of business leaders said

■ BY JON COATES

Kent was a good place to invest or run a successful organisation, while 41 per cent thought it was average.

The study also asked what the main factors enabling companies in the county to thrive and grow are.

Twenty-five per cent said it was customer focus, 19 per cent pointed to exporting and international trade, while 14 per cent rated creativity and innovation, and sales and marketing.

The survey also found that 40 per cent of those quizzed felt it was feasible to reduce the carbon footprint of businesses, while 26 per cent argued it was not.

The local factors which affects business growth were named as bad transport, by 26 per cent; drugs, drink and violence, by 15 per cent; and expensive or scarce housing, by 15 per cent.

SEEDA carried out the survey as part of its last call for entries for its first South East Business Awards.

Jeff Alexander, executive director of SEEDA's global competitiveness division, said: "We aim to get to the heart of the needs of our local business communities and this research highlights the factors that make a thriving environment and pinpoint areas for development."

"That is why the South East Business Awards will showcase outstanding business achievements so far."

Companies can apply for the awards at www.southeastbusinessawards.co.uk. Closing date for applications is November 28 and winners will be announced on March 6.

Ladies shine in a real struggle

GILLINGHAM Anchorians Ladies 1st XI won their third consecutive match with a tough 3-2 home win against BBHC.

Anchs opened the scoring when Gemma Smith's free hit was deflected over the keeper at the near post by Dawn Bowie.

The visitors scored twice to take the lead before the break, but the hosts put in an excellent second-half display to take the points.

After concerted pressure, Anchs were finally rewarded from a short corner when Liz Kirk's dive at the far post tipped the ball into the net.

Jackie Gray scored late on to give the Gillingham girls the win.

Paul Scally unveils Mark Stimson as the new Gillingham manager

Late goals deal blow to Chats

CHATHAM Town twice threw away a lead as they lost 3-2 to Burgess Hill Town on Saturday, to suffer their second home defeat in five days.

Shane Suter returned from suspension and put the Chats ahead on 10 minutes when he charged down a clearance from the visiting goalkeeper.

The hosts had chances to move further in front, but the visitors pegged them back before the break.

Chatham regained the initiative at the start of the second half.

Good work on the left by Suter, Matt Solly and Tom Davey, eventually led to a cross which Craig Govey thumped into the roof of the net.

Chatham paid dearly for missing opportunities to make the game safe, when Burgess Hill struck twice in the last 17 minutes to take maximum points.

The defeat came days after losing 3-1 to Sittingbourne at Maidstone Road.

Chatham's next game is at home to Leatherhead on Saturday, kick-off 3pm.

THUNDERBOLT: Delroy Facey's 25-yard screamer got Mark Stimson's first game in charge of the Gills off to a flyer, but Swansea hit back to equalise with 12 minutes left

Swansea City 1 Gillingham 1

The home side came into the Friday night fixture in irresistible form, with four consecutive league wins. Roberto Martinez's only needed a point from the game to overtake Carlisle at the League One summit.

The noisy home crowd may have expected a comfortable win, but Facey silenced them with a stunning goal on 10 minutes. Picking up a loose ball 25-yards out, he weighed up his options before unleashing an unstoppable shot into the top corner.

With a quarter of the game gone, Gillingham's position was strengthened further when Warren Feeney was sent off for a high lunge on Simon King. The home fans first derided the decision, then rallied behind their team, which galvanised Swansea.

Despite being a man down for more than an hour, the hosts enjoyed the vast majority of possession and territory.

After the break, Swansea launched wave after wave of attack, which Gillingham dealt with until Paul Anderson levelled in the 78th minute.

Just as the game looked to be heading for a draw, the referee awarded a penalty when Leon Britton went down under a challenge from King in the box in the final minute of stoppage time.

Up stepped Robinson, but Royce made a double save to end Gills' losing run away from home.

Stimson said: "If you put that amount of effort in against other teams who are not so high in the league, you will go and win matches. That is the standard they have set and we have got to try and stick to that."

Stimson's first game in front of the home fans was last night against Doncaster Rovers.

• For the full match report visit kentnews.co.uk.

SIMON Royce saved a last-minute penalty to get the Mark Stimson era off to a good start as Gillingham notched their first away point of the season in a dramatic game in Wales.

The visitors were 12 minutes away from a sensational victory, but the home side claimed a deserved late equaliser to cancel out Delroy Facey's first-half thunderbolt.

Stimson said: "It's a pleasing point. We knew we were going to come up against a good side who are riding high in the league. We just had to be disciplined in the way we set up and I thought we were."

"We deserved it. We might have rode our luck a couple of times, but we can go home happy."

With Stimson taking over just 24 hours before kick-off, first-team coach Iffy Onoura picked an adventurous team.

Strikers Gary Mulligan, David Graham and Facey all started, as Gills tried to end their run of six consecutive away league defeats.

make it 2-0.

Raiders only brought half a team with them for the match, but they hit back halfway through the first period with three goals in 51 seconds to take the lead.

Andy Smith scored in reply to send the teams in level at the break.

Raiders edged ahead with two goals in a quiet second period, with only Anthony Leone's goal to cheer the home fans. The forward went on to become the Dynamos' man-of-the-match with a good all round display.

Smith and Leone grabbed their second goals of the night in the final period to put the Mos ahead, before crumbling in the final minute.

This weekend the Mos' league season begins in earnest, with back-to-back games against Haringey Greyhounds and Slough Hawks.

Invicta have won both their league games so far, but with other teams having already played as many as eight games, the Mos currently lie in the bottom half of the National Hockey League South B.

Their next home match at the Gillingham Ice Bowl is not until November 25 against Basingstoke Buffalo.

Medway delight at victorious Vigo trip

RUGBY

BY DAVID PRITCHARD

Vigo 12 Medway 13

MEDWAY RFC produced their best display so far to secure a first away league win of the season against Kent Two leaders Vigo.

The hosts scored a late try to get within reach of the visitors, but the match-winning conversion was missed in front of the posts to give Medway the points.

Medway coach Taff Gwilliam paid tribute to his side's performance, particularly Dwayne Glassey, who filled in at flanker when Monish Shome was injured in the warm-up.

He said: "Obviously we are overjoyed with an away win against an unbeaten side, especially with lots of players out injured. Dwayne performed superbly and did a great job."

Tight

In a very tight game, Vigo struck first, scoring an opportunistic try when Medway lost a defensive line-out after 20 minutes.

Dafydd Ruffle got the visitors on the board with a penalty soon afterwards and Medway went in ahead at the break thanks to a try from Geoff Kempt after good work by winger Rob Ellis.

With 15 minutes to go, Ruffle scored a try in the corner to ease Medway six points clear and set up the victory. Vigo replied with their second try of the afternoon on 76 minutes, but the missed conversion handed the match to Medway.

Gwilliam said: "It is a pleasing win because they were top and it keeps us in contention. Clearly we still have a lot of work to do, but we will be working hard on the weaknesses that Vigo exposed to try and improve."

The win lifted Medway into the top half of Kent 2 for the first time, ahead of Saturday's game against Foots Cray, the division's bottom side.

NO IFS AND BUTS: Holcombe Ladies firsts are showing league-winning form

HOLCOMBE Ladies' 1st XI kept their 100 per cent league record intact with an emphatic win against Cambridge University.

Candice Forword grabbed a first half hat-trick to help the side on their way to their seventh league victory, which put them five points clear at the top of the East Women's Premier League.

Team manager Mike Haines was delighted with the performance, particularly at the back, after the team conceded four goals in the previous game.

He said: "We wanted to keep a clean sheet, last week we allowed the opposition to score goals so we did a lot of work before the game on defending. Cambridge were quite a useful side, but our captain Jackie Gray did well in goal."

"Up front, Candice got a wonderful hat-trick – she is a very good player. She dictates the pace of the game in midfield and when you add her goals to that you can't ask much more."

Forword has scored in all eight games this season and the hat-trick took her personal tally of the season to 16 goals. Jennie Hoyte has also netted in every game and she opened the scoring for her 11th of the campaign.

Lauren Osborn scored Holcombe's other goal to round off another excellent victory.

With a third of the season gone, the team are hot favourites for promotion, but Haines dismissed the suggestion.

He said: "It's a bit too early to talk about promotion, but we are optimistic with the way we are playing."

"We are scoring an average of five goals a game, which is superb, but we are not complacent and just want to keep it going as long as possible."

Holcombe have the chance to make it eight wins in a row when they travel to Essex to play Chelmsford 2s on Saturday.

SPORT IN BRIEF

Adam comes to Lords' rescue with late penalty

ADAM Douglas scored an injury-time penalty to pinch a point from Lordswood's game at home to Croydon.

Lordswood trailed from a first half strike from Sam Ayiva until the home side won a penalty in the final minute.

The draw keeps them in contention to qualify from Group C of the Premier Division Cup.

Their next game in the competition is against Sporting Bengal next Tuesday, but first they face a tough test in the league against high-flying Beckenham Town on Saturday.

Diamonds are no best friend to the Gills girls

GILLINGHAM Ladies face a tough test this weekend when they host Rushden & Diamonds in the South East Combination League.

The two sides met earlier in the season, with the Northamptonshire club scoring two late goals to win 4-2.

Gillingham lie third from bottom in the division, but in Jaclyn Fiddymment they have one of the league's top scorers, with seven goals in eight games.

Kick-off at Woodstock Park, near Sittingbourne, is 2pm on Sunday.

Solid victory another boost for revitalised Lordswood

LORDSWOOD RFC comprehensively beat Tonbridge Juddians 38-5 to record their second away win of the season and move up to third in London South East 3.

The league's bottom side were unable to cope with the visitors, who are now three points behind leaders Deal & Betteshanger.

Lordswood have a good chance of closing the gap in their next two league games.

They play at home against sides in the bottom half, beginning with Aylesford Bulls on Saturday.

Bourne vacancy: Team on lookout for manager
